

The Core Meaning of the Three Major Global Initiatives and the Logic of Global Governance

You Nan¹

¹University of Science and Technology Beijing, Beijing, China
Email: prettynancy0125@163.com

Abstract: In the new era, Chinese President has continuously put forward the Global Development Initiative, the Global Security Initiative and the Global Civilization Initiative, which complement each other and aim to build a peaceful, prosperous and diverse world. Development is the foundation of security and civilization, and security is the premise of development and civilization. We need to build a community with a shared future for mankind based on the global development initiative, the global security initiative, and the global civilization initiative as the clarion call. The "Three Global Initiatives" have supplemented and improved western global governance theories from many aspects, demonstrated the unique understanding and practice of Chinese-style modernization, injected new impetus into the building of a more just and equitable international order, and provided new ideas and solutions for global governance.

Key words: Global development initiative, Global security initiative, Global civilization initiative, global governance, a community with a shared future for mankind

1. Introduction

Mankind is facing great changes in the world. We are now facing important challenges in the global security field. Regional conflicts, climate change, terrorism, cyber security, biosecurity and other issues are emerging one after another, which require the joint efforts of all countries to respond. The crisis in Ukraine has been protracted, the Israeli-Palestinian conflict has further escalated, the situation in the Red Sea has remained tense, and the north-south confrontation on the Korean Peninsula has increased. These hot issues and potential confrontation and conflict factors in other regions have triggered global security concerns, and the world is facing the risk of falling into camp confrontation or even large-scale war.^[1] In recent years, China has successively put forward Global security initiatives, Global development initiatives and Global Civilization initiatives, which together constitute the "three major global initiatives". They focus on different levels of security, development and exchanges among civilizations, are people-centered, and respect the development path and social system independently chosen by all countries. They are important concepts and ideological guidance to solve the security dilemma facing mankind and build a fair and reasonable global security order. The proposal of the "Three Global initiatives" not only reflects China's responsibility as a major country, but also provides new ideas and directions for global governance, and helps to build a more just, rational and effective global governance system. Respecting the sovereignty and territorial integrity of all countries, observing the purposes and principles of the UN Charter, promoting cultural exchanges, promoting civilized progress and providing new governance plans reflects China's responsibility as a major country, and will help the international community jointly respond to complex and volatile international challenges and maintain world peace, development and stability.

2. The proposal and core meaning of the "three Global initiatives"

2.1 Global Development Initiative

Global Development Initiative is a new initiative designed to promote balanced, coordinated and inclusive global development, emphasizes the importance of development and places it in a prominent position within the global macro-policy framework. It called on countries to strengthen policy coordination and maintain continuity, stability and sustainability in order to build a more equal and balanced global partnership for development. The Global Development Initiative was put forward by Chinese President Xi Jinping at the general debate of the 76th Session of the UN General Assembly in September 2021. The core elements of the initiative include "six principles": giving priority to development, putting people first, inclusiveness, innovation-driven development, harmony between man and nature, and action orientation. The above content reflects China's deep understanding and positive attitude towards global development issues. Specifically, adhering to development priority means that development is the top priority for global progress; the people-centered emphasizes ensuring and improving the people's development; addressing the development imbalance between countries and within countries; the innovation drive encourages countries to seize the opportunity of scientific and technological revolution to create an open and fair environment for technological development; man and nature calls for improving global environmental governance and tackling climate change; and the action orientation emphasizes increasing investment in development resources, promoting cooperation in various fields, and accelerating the implementation of the sustainable development agenda. This initiative calls on the international community to accelerate the implementation of the UN 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development and jointly build a global community of shared future for global development. It reflects China's profound insight and scientific grasp of the basic characteristics of the world's new stage of development and the laws of human society. It also shows China's position and views on international development issues. The introduction of the Global Development Initiative has received wide attention and positive response from the international community. Many countries and international organizations believe that this initiative is closely related to improving people's well-being. At the same time, the Global Development Initiative also provides new ideas and platforms for China to cooperate with other countries in the context of globalization.

2.2 Global security initiative

Global Security Initiative, an initiative launched by Chinese President Xi Jinping at the Boao Forum for Asia on April 21, 2022. It is a profound insight into the current global security situation and positive response, and China to provide international security challenges, to respond to the international community to maintain world peace, prevent the urgent needs of conflict war. The core elements of the Global Security Initiative can be summarized as the "six principles": adherence to the common, integrated, cooperative and sustainable security concept; adherence to respecting the sovereignty and territorial integrity of countries; the purposes and principles of the UN Charter; the reasonable security concerns of countries; adherence to the peaceful settlement of differences and disputes between countries through dialogue and consultation; and the overall maintenance of security in both traditional and non-traditional fields. These "six principles" are interconnected and mutually supportive, and constitute the core concept and basic framework of the Global Security Initiative. This initiative is not only a vivid practice of the concept of a community with a shared future for mankind in the security field. It also contributes Chinese wisdom to advancing global security governance and addressing international security challenges, and points the way forward for safeguarding world peace and tranquility. The content of the Global Security Initiative covers many aspects, including preventing the proliferation of weapons of mass destruction, cyber security and information security, international peace and security, traditional security and non-traditional security. In addition, the Global Security Initiative has also emphasized the importance of building a security community. It believes that mankind is an indivisible security community, and the security of all countries is interdependent and closely linked. Therefore, countries should abandon the old mentality of zero-sum game and winner-takes-all, foster a new security concept of common, comprehensive, cooperative and sustainable security, and promote the building of a community with a shared future for mankind. The Global Security Initiative represents China's comprehensive, in-depth and systematic new security governance philosophy. By strengthening international cooperation and joint efforts, we have the confidence to address various global security challenges and achieve world peace and stability.

2.3 Global Civilization Initiative

Global Civilization Initiative is the first initiative proposed by President Xi Jinping at the High-level Dialogue between the CPC and World Political Parties on March 15, 2023. This is another international public good proposed by China to the world following the Global Development Initiative and the Global Security Initiative. It fully embodies the traditional culture of faith, benevolence and good neighbors, as well as the CPC's mission of "seeking progress for mankind and seeking greater harmony for the world". The initiative conforms to the common needs of the international community to enhance dialogue and exchanges among civilizations and promote cultural prosperity and development. It will help to enhance China's international influence and demonstrate its responsibility and responsibility as a major country. The core elements of the Global Civilization Initiative include "four common initiatives": the respect for the diversity of world civilizations, the importance for the inheritance and innovation, and the international cultural exchanges and cooperation. The core of the Global Civilization Initiative is to respect the diversity of world civilizations and uphold equality, mutual learning, dialogue and inclusiveness among civilizations. It advocates promoting cultural prosperity and development by enhancing dialogue and exchanges among civilizations, so as to solve the common challenges facing human civilization and expand the path of human civilization progress. In addition, the Global Civilization Initiative also believes that different forms of civilization, such as Chinese, Greek and Roman, constitute a rich and colorful spectrum of human civilization through competition and integration, evolution and innovation. Therefore, we should actively promote the exchanges and cooperation among various civilizations, so as to realize the common progress and development of human civilization. Many countries speak highly of and are willing to actively implement the Global Civilization Initiative, which is of great significance to the realization of the UN Sustainable Development Goals, the maintenance of world peace and security, and the progress of human civilization.

3. The inherent connection between the "three major global initiatives" and the logic of global governance

3.1 The inherent connection between the "three major global initiatives"

The Global Security Initiative focuses on safeguarding world peace and security, advocates solving security issues through international cooperation, and clearly answers the issues of The Times of "what kind of security concepts does the world need and how all countries achieve common security". The core of the initiative is to uphold a common, comprehensive, cooperative and sustainable security concept, which reflects China's comprehensive and in-depth thinking on global security issues. The Global Development Initiative focuses on global economic development and is committed to promoting the common development of all countries. Its core values include development priority, people-centered, solving the problems facing the world and creating a better future, aiming to build a more equal and balanced global partnership for development. The Global Civilization Initiative focuses on respect and exchanges in the diversity of civilizations, advocates equality, mutual learning, dialogue and inclusiveness among civilizations, addresses the common challenges facing mankind through enhancing dialogue among civilizations, and promotes the prosperity and development of human civilization.

The link between the three major global initiatives is that the Global Security Initiative, the Global Development Initiative and the Global Civilization Initiative are complementary and aim to build a peaceful, prosperous and diverse world. The three major initiatives are consistent in one line and echo each other, and are highly consistent with the goal of building a community with a shared future for mankind featuring lasting peace, universal security, common prosperity, an open, inclusive, clean and beautiful world.^[2]

"Three Global initiatives" demonstrate China's contribution to promoting global harmony and development. First, they promote each other and support each other. Among them, development is the foundation of security and civilization. Only when countries prosper and develop can peace last and civilization progress. Security is the premise of development and civilization. If there is no peaceful and stable environment, development and civilization will lose their guarantee. Second, these three initiatives point out the direction of human society from the three dimensions of development, security and civilization, and echo each other, providing solid support for the building of a community with a shared future for mankind. Finally, on the basis of the Global Development Initiative, the Global Security Initiative and the Global Civilization Initiative as the clarion call, the concept of a community with a shared future for mankind shows a new form of human society that is true, perfect and beautiful.

3.2 The logic of global governance of the "three major global initiatives"

From the perspective of global governance logic, the "three Global initiatives" emphasize many aspects of global governance, including politics, security, society and other fields. Chinese-style modernization and the "three global initiatives" are closely linked and complement each other. Chinese-style modernization is the practical basis of the "Three Global Initiative", and the implementation of the "Three Global Initiatives" is a window for the world to observe Chinese-style modernization, and the contribution of Chinese-style modernization is constantly highlighted in the implementation of the "Three Global Initiatives".^[3]It mainly reflected in the following four aspects.

First, the people-centered values. It emphasizes that the purpose of development is to serve the free liberation and all-round development of people. This concept solves the fundamental problem of why people, who creates and who enjoys it, and is the driving force for historical progress. From the perspective of human rights protection, three global initiatives to solve the human rights deficit problem and improve the global human rights governance on a prescription, the initiative emphasizes the countries to set up the human destiny community consciousness, advocating peace, development, cooperation, win-win concept, with unity instead of division, cooperation instead of confrontation, tolerance instead of exclusive.

Second, the Chinese spirit of making peace the most valuable. At present, the peace deficit and security difficulties are becoming more prominent, and the theme of The Times of peace and development is facing severe challenges. The "harmony" culture is an important spiritual gene of the Chinese nation and is integrated in the blood of the Chinese people. The Global Security Initiative stresses that countries should work together to safeguard world peace and security and resolve differences and disputes through dialogue and consultation, rather than adopting a way of confrontation and conflict approach. At the same time, the initiative also attaches importance to the security concerns of all countries, respects their sovereignty and territorial integrity, and promotes the building of a universally safe world. The Global Civilization Initiative advocates respect for the diversity of world civilizations and embodies a world view of "harmony without uniformity". At present, the "law of the jungle" has brought development and security difficulties to the modernization of all countries. China follows the tradition of valuing peace, supports and helps other developing countries to accelerate their development, realize industrialization and modernization, and provides China's solutions and strength for narrowing the gap between the North and the South and achieving common development.

Third, the concept of "one should first of all respect one's own culture, and also appreciate the culture of others for the prosperity of human civilization." The three Global initiatives adhere to the principle of cooperation. This is reflected in respect for the independent strategic choice of all countries, including the purposes and principles of the UN Charter, respect for the sovereignty and territorial integrity of all countries, non-interference in the internal affairs of other countries, and equality, mutual learning, dialogue and inclusiveness among civilizations. At the same time, it also advocates common values, embraces multiple values, and strives to maintain the diversity of its own systems and democratic ways.

Fourth, we should remain problem-oriented. This requires to be good at finding and understanding contradictions as a breakthrough to open the work, face up to the problem, grasp the initiative to solve the problem. Three global initiative based on strategic thinking, historical thinking, dialectical thinking, system thinking and innovative thinking, face to face with global development, security and civilization in the field of the core problems and major problems, deeply analyze and grasp the root cause of the problem, clearly put forward the solution to the problem, both philosophy, and feasible planning, shows the positive response to the people generally concern, to solve the common problems facing human contribution courage, embodies the positive responsibility to bear.^[4]

4. The path to advance the implementation of the three Major Global initiatives

The "Three Global initiatives" constitute the "three pillars" of the building of a community with a shared future for mankind. They will actively participate in the reform and development of the global governance system and make global governance more just and equitable. The "Belt and Road" Initiative and the "Three Global Initiative" are to further enrich and develop the concept of a community with a shared future for mankind. They have different priorities and organic links in strategic positioning, promotion methods, implementation areas and cooperation path. The "three Global initiatives" should promote the high-quality development of the "Belt and Road" Initiative.^[5]

4.1 The path to promoting the implementation of the Global Development Initiative

The practice path of the Global Development Initiative mainly includes multilateral, standardized and institutionalized cooperation methods, which will help to further promote the Global Development Initiative and provide Chinese solutions for accelerating the implementation of the sustainable development agenda and promoting the realization of global common development. So far, more than 100 countries and international organizations have supported the Global Development Initiative, more than 70 countries have joined the Friends of the Global Development Initiative Group, and nearly 30 countries and international institutions have signed memorandums of understanding on cooperation with China, further linking the global development Initiative with major development strategies of relevant countries and regions. At the same time, to promote the implementation of the Global Development Initiative, China has actively carried out a series of concrete actions, such as promoting exchanges and dialogues among civilizations, people-to-people exchanges, exchanges between political parties and political organizations, strengthening exchanges and dialogue among different civilizations, and deepening consensus on inclusiveness and mutual learning.

4.2 The path to promoting the implementation of the Global Security Initiative

The Global Security Initiative aims to maintain world peace and security and build a universal security community by strengthening international cooperation. The Global Security Initiative adheres to the concept of common, comprehensive, cooperative and sustainable security, which is the foundation of the global Security Initiative; promotes national, regional and global security through dialogue, consultation, solidarity and cooperation, and translating the concept of common security into the practice of global security governance. At present, the global security initiative has won more than 100 countries and international organizations, China officially released the global security initiative concept file, system illustrates the core ideas and principles of the global security initiative, to solve the global security problem provide more systematic thinking, more feasible measures, for the global security initiative further deep outline the path, advocate and promote building a balanced, effective and sustainable security architecture, to eliminate international conflict roots, and realize the stability of the world. We will actively mediate to promote historic reconciliation between Saudi Arabia and Iran and set an example for good-neighborliness and friendship.

4.3 The path to promote the implementation of the Global Civilization Initiative

The Global Civilization Initiative emphasizes respect for and protection of cultural diversity, and promotes exchanges, mutual learning and harmonious coexistence between different civilizations.

First, we should strengthen the development of a platform for exchanges and dialogue among civilizations and promote equal exchanges among different civilizations. This includes respecting different civilizations around the world, and setting a benchmark for their exchanges with an inclusive practical character, positive innovative ideas and a universal sense of communication. We should vigorously promote the common values of mankind in the "Three Global initiatives" and expand the "common significance space" between the East and the West, so as to reduce the color of ideology and enhance the international community's understanding of the objectivity and comprehensiveness of the initiatives.^[6]

Second, enhance the capacity of international communication to better promote mutual understanding of various civilizations. In order to promote the practical implementation of these practical paths, China has continuously promoted the construction of the people-to-people exchange mechanism, and promoted cultural exchanges and people-to-people exchanges among countries along the Belt and Road by strengthening exchanges between bilateral and multilateral political parties and political organizations. We will actively implement the Global civilization initiative, and promote dialogue among different civilizations by holding various cultural exchange activities and establishing exchange mechanisms among civilizations. Today, China has carried out various forms of non-governmental diplomacy and public diplomacy activities, as well as established Silk Road museums, libraries and art galleries. We should attach importance to the youth group, follow the development trend of mobile, visual, social, platform and intelligent international communication, and actively use modern communication means to expand the space for exchanges between Chinese and foreign civilizations. In combination with the global digital development trend, we will create a cooperation mode of "Internet + cultural exchanges", skillfully apply new technologies of cloud computing, big data, artificial intelligence, virtual reality and other technologies in the process of cultural collection, production and distribution, and cooperate with cultural institutions to build "model projects" such as "Panorama Palace Museum" and "Digital Dunhuang".^[7] In general, the implementation of the Global Civilization Initiative requires the efforts of the government, society and individuals to jointly promote the progress and development of human civilization by enhancing understanding and promoting cooperation.

The "Three Global Initiatives" provide new ties and new impetus for the relationship between China and the United Nations, align with relevant mechanisms of the United Nations, and give full play to the role of major UN agencies and relevant departments in concept dissemination, value building, mechanism guarantee, project cooperation, professional guidance, network construction and cultural cultivation. For the United Nations, working with China to promote the implementation of the three major initiatives will enhance its core position and role in global governance from the three dimensions of development, security and civilization.^[8]

5. The great significance of the three Major Global initiatives to global governance

5.1 Innovative concept: it breaks the shackles of western global governance concept

The "three Major Global initiatives" contain a fair and reasonable global governance framework, which fundamentally transcends the "Western-centric" global governance model. The current global governance system is dominated by the United States and serves the western interests, with an obvious "center-edge" structure. A few western countries at the center of the international political and economic order control the formulation of global governance rules, and uphold the attitude and style of "Western-centered theory" and "racial superiority theory".^[9] The Global Development Initiative has broken through the shackles of western global governance theory and provided important support for the promotion of Chinese-style modernization at the global level. First, the Global Development Initiative emphasizes development as the key to achieving people's happiness, and puts development in a prominent position in the global macro policy framework. This is in sharp contrast to western global governance theories to ignore social equity and sustainable development. Second, the Global Development Initiative adheres to the people-centered development philosophy, always ensuring and improves people's livelihood and promotes all-round human development. This idea goes beyond the western global governance theory of unilateral pursuit of economic growth and neglect of the practical needs of the people. Third, the Global Development Initiative advocates an inclusive development model, pays close attention to the special needs of developing countries, and supports them through debt relief and development assistance. This has broken the binary opposition between the center and the edge and the underdeveloped in the western global governance theory, and is committed to building a more equal and balanced global development partnership. In addition, the Global Development Initiative emphasizes the principles of innovation-driven development, harmony between man and nature, and action-oriented principles, which are more targeted and effective in addressing global challenges.

The Global Security Initiative has broken the shackles of western global governance theories, mainly reflected in the following aspects: First, the Global Security Initiative starts from the common well-being of mankind, replaces zero-sum game with dialogue and cooperation, closed exclusion with openness and inclusiveness, and self-supremacy with exchanges and mutual learning. This is in sharp contrast to the concept of conflict and confrontation emphasized by western global governance theory. The Global Security Initiative is committed to sharing the dignity, the fruits of development and security, and promoting the building of a security community, demonstrating the respect for and maintenance of the common values of all mankind. Second, the "six principles" proposed by the Global Security Initiative form a dialectical and unified organic whole. These principles break the shackles of the old international security theory and find the key to solve the security dilemma. With its new ideas and broad inclusiveness, the Global Security Initiative has broken through the limitations of western global governance theories and provided new ideas and solutions for the construction of a more just and equitable international order.

The Global Civilization Initiative has broken the shackles of Western global governance theories, mainly in the following aspects: First, the Global Civilization Initiative calls for respecting the diversity of world civilizations and upholding equality, mutual learning, dialogue and inclusiveness among civilizations. This idea goes beyond the tendency of western global governance theory to center the West and ignore other civilizations, and emphasizes the mutual respect among civilizations. Through exchanges between civilizations, mutual learning and clashes, and inclusiveness among civilizations, we have built a more diverse, open and inclusive global system of civilizations. Second, the Global Civilization Initiative carries forward the common values of all mankind, stressing that peace, development, fairness, justice, democracy and freedom are the common aspirations of the people of all countries. This is in sharp contrast to the western global governance theory, which puts too much emphasis on its own values and models. The Global Civilization Initiative advocates understanding different civilizations on the connotation of values, not impose their own values and models on others, and not engage in ideological confrontation, which is helpful to break the discourse trap of "universal values" and promote the justice and rationality of global governance.

5.2 System reform: Promoting the reform of the global governance system

At present, some countries still have a Cold War mentality, adhering to the zero-sum mentality of "you lose, I win" and the self-centered hegemonic mentality. The Cold War mentality is also reflected in imposing their own values and models on other countries, not respecting the self-selected power of other countries and not understanding the connotation of values of different civilizations. These are not only contrary to the common, integrated, cooperative and sustainable security concepts upheld by the Global Security Initiative, but also seriously contrary to the principle of inclusiveness upheld by the Global Development Initiative. They are also completely contrary to the respect for the diversity of world civilizations advocated by the Global Civilization Initiative.^[10]

The Global Development Initiative has promoted the reform and development of the global governance system, embodied in the following aspects: First, it has enriched the connotation of building a community with a shared future for mankind and injected strong impetus into China's participation in the reform and development of the global governance system. By adhering to the right direction of economic globalization and the core philosophy of putting people first, we should promote international macroeconomic policy coordination, build international consensus on promoting development, foster new drivers of global development, and promote common development and progress of all countries. Second, China has actively cooperated with international organizations in multilateral capacity building, accelerated the training of international organizations and international governance professionals with global competence, and provided strong talent support for global governance. At the same time, China firmly upholds the international system with the United Nations at its core and the international order based on international law, and supports international organizations in playing a constructive role in the reform and development of the global governance system. Finally, China has continued to expand the scale of foreign aid, increase the intensity of foreign aid to world development, and expand the scope of aid, which will help strengthen international cooperation and promote the reform and improvement of the global governance system. Overall, the Global Development Initiative reflects China's global vision and responsibility, and has made important contributions to the reform and development of the global governance system.

The Global Security Initiative has played a vital role in promoting the reform and development of the global governance system. The initiative aims to clearly answer the topic of The Times of "what kind of security concept does the world need and how all countries can achieve common security", and provides a Chinese solution to meet international security challenges. Promoting the reform and development of the global governance system: First, the Global Security Initiative advocates a common, comprehensive, cooperative and sustainable security concept, emphasizing promoting national security and global security through dialogue and cooperation on the basis of valuing each other's reasonable security concerns. This concept will help break the traditional zero-sum game thinking and encourage countries to transcend individual rationality and realize common rational global security governance. Second, the Global Security Initiative adheres to the principle of respecting the sovereignty and territorial integrity of all countries and non-interference in the internal affairs of other countries. This position helps to maintain the stability of international relations and prevent external forces from interfering in other internal affairs, thus guaranteeing the right of all countries to independent development. In the global governance system, respecting the sovereignty and territorial integrity of all countries is the basis for ensuring the equal participation and joint decision-making of all countries, and helps to promote the democratization process of the global governance system. In addition, the Global Security Initiative emphasizes abiding by the purposes and principles of the UN Charter, abandoning the Cold War mentality, opposing unilateralism, and not engaging in group politics and camp confrontation. These principles will help uphold the authority and effectiveness of international law and prevent some countries from using unilateralism to undermine the international order. By promoting multilateralism and international cooperation, the Global Security Initiative will help build a more open, inclusive global governance system. Finally, the introduction and implementation of the Global Security Initiative also demonstrates China's responsibility as a major country.

The Global Civilization Initiative has promoted the reform and development of the global governance system, mainly reflected in the following aspects: First, the Initiative attaches great importance to the inheritance and innovation of civilizations, and strengthens international people-to-people and cultural exchanges and cooperation. These ideas help to promote cultural mutual learning among countries, thus providing an important ideological basis for the reform and construction of the global governance system. Second, the Global Civilization Initiative conforms to the common needs of the international community to enhance dialogue and exchanges among civilizations and promote cultural prosperity and development. Promoting cooperation and understanding among countries has injected new impetus into the reform and development of the global governance system. Finally, the Global Civilization Initiative provides a new path and choice for promoting the modernization process of human society and flourishing the garden of world civilization. This will help promote the reform and improvement of the global governance system and make it more in line with the common interests and long-term development of human society.

5.3 Contribution plan: Contribute Chinese wisdom to global governance

The Global Development Initiative, the Global Security Initiative and the Global Civilization Initiative are all important wisdom of China's contribution to global governance. First, the Global Development Initiative calls on the international community to enhance solidarity and mutual trust, emphasizing the importance of development and promoting cooperation and coordination among countries to achieve common development and prosperity. By combining its own development with world prosperity and stability, China has actively helped southern countries around the world and injected impetus for balanced global development. Second, the Global Security Initiative advocates multinational cooperation to jointly build a community of human security. This initiative breaks through the limitations of focusing solely on its own security and focuses on advocating common security based on peace, development and respect for the UN Charter. China has played a positive role in promoting world peace and stability by taking practical actions such as supporting the political settlement of regional conflicts and respecting the independence and sovereignty of other countries. Finally, China advocates equal exchanges and mutual learning among different civilizations, which will help solve the problems of The Times and achieve common development. This concept not only embodies respect for cultural diversity, but also provides a foundation for China's contributing wisdom in the field of global human rights and social governance. These Chinese initiatives and actions have provided a new perspective and solutions for global governance, demonstrating the responsibility and wisdom of a responsible major country.

The Global Development Initiative has contributed Chinese wisdom to global governance. First, the Global Development Initiative calls on the international community to enhance solidarity and mutual trust, give priority to development, and work together to meet challenges. This concept of emphasizing unity and development has injected new impetus and thinking direction into global governance. Second, by integrating the implementation of the 2030 Agenda with the national medium-and long-term development strategy, China has integrated its own development in the prosperity and stability of the world. This shows that China has always participated in global governance with an open and inclusive mind, and is committed to promoting the common development and prosperity of all countries. Moreover, China supports and makes economic globalization more open, inclusive, balanced and beneficial to all. It advocates multilateralism and advocates that all countries should work together to address global challenges under the multilateral framework. Finally, China also actively advocates the concept of a community with a shared future for mankind, stressing that prosperity in ecology means prosperity to civilization, promote harmony between man and nature, and build a community of life on earth and a clean and beautiful world. This not only provides new ideas for dealing with environmental problems, but also broadens the ideas for the international community to solve consensus problems. The Global Development Initiative and China's actions and initiatives in global governance fully demonstrate China's commitment and responsibility for making progress for mankind and for the world.

The Global Security Initiative has contributed Chinese wisdom to global governance. First, the Global Security Initiative emphasizes that security is indivisible and regards mankind as an indivisible security community. This concept breaks through the traditional zero-sum game thinking, promotes the renewal and development of the security concept, and provides a new idea for building a more just and reasonable international order. Second, the Global Security Initiative continues to respect the sovereignty and territorial integrity of all countries, abide by the purposes and principles of the UN Charter, attach importance to the legitimate security concerns of all countries, and resolve differences and disputes among countries peacefully through dialogue and consultation. These principles are in line with the values universally recognized by the international community and the basic principles of international law, and can help maintain world peace and stability and promote common development. Finally, the Global Security Initiative has also injected China's impetus into global governance through practical actions. For example, China firmly supports a political settlement of the Ukraine crisis, maintains peace and stability on the Korean Peninsula, and calls on the international community to respect Afghanistan's independence, sovereignty and territorial integrity. These actions demonstrate China's determination and responsibility in promoting global security governance, and have made positive contributions to improving the global governance system and safeguarding the security of all countries themselves. With its unique perspective and solutions, the Global Security Initiative has contributed Chinese wisdom and Chinese solutions to global governance.

The Global Civilization Initiative has contributed Chinese wisdom to global governance. First, the Initiative emphasizes equal exchanges and mutual learning among different civilizations. By enhancing understanding and respect for different civilizations, it can encourage the international community to form consensus on the basis of diverse civilizations and promote the reform and improvement of the global governance system. Second, the Global Civilization Initiative has put forward the concept of surpassing cultural exchanges, mutual learning, surpassing cultural clashes, and inclusiveness among civilizations. This provides new ideas and methods for handling international relations and promoting global governance. In the context of globalization, countries are increasingly connected, and exchanges and cooperation between different civilizations are of great significance to promoting world peace and development. Finally, the Global Civilization Initiative also demonstrates the CPC's political courage and responsibility to face the common challenges of mankind. This proposal demonstrates China's determination and actions to take an active part in global governance and contribute to the progress of human civilization. In general, the Global Civilization Initiative has contributed Chinese wisdom and Chinese solutions to global governance by advocating exchanges and mutual learning among civilizations, promoting the building of a community with a shared future for mankind, and demonstrating China's political courage and responsibility. China has taken an active part in the reform and development of the global governance system, and has made important contributions to the improvement and development of the global governance system by putting forward Global security initiative and other proposals. Such responsibility as a major country will help strengthen the international community's trust and support for China in global governance, and further promote the reform and development of the global governance system.

Acknowledgments: This research work was supported by the Youth Project of Humanities and Social Sciences Research of Ministry of Education (Grant No.: 23YJC710112). I also acknowledge the support of the Basic Research fund of Central Universities for "High Quality Development of Marxist Theory in the New Era" (Grant No.:FRF-BR-23-06B) and the research fund of Central Universities for "Perspectives of the European Left on Xi Jinping's Thought on Socialism with Chinese Characteristics for a New Era in the midst of a century of change"(Grant No.:FRF-TP-22-070A1) .

REFERENCES

- [1].Yu Jiang(2024). Three initiatives and the reform and construction of the Global Governance System.Asia-Pacific Security and Marine Research, 158 (2), 3.
- [2].Liu Zhigang(2023). "Three Major Initiatives": Three-dimensional presentation of the concept of a community with a shared future for mankind, Xinjiang Social Science,(6),82.
- [3]. Chen Wenbing(2024).In view of the world significance of Chinese modernization from the "Three Global initiatives".International Observation, (2),21.
- [4]. Men Honghua(2023). The strategic logic of China's three major global initiatives.Modern International Relations,(7),16-17.
- [5]. Meng Jinhao (2024). The synergy between the Belt and Road Initiative and the "Three Global initiatives".Socialist Research, 274(2),141-144.
- [6].Wei Hong, Hao Xue (2023)."Three Global initiatives": New Thinking and Path of Global Governance.Socialist Research, (6),164-172.
- [7].Zhang Yaojun(2023).Practice and Support for Building a Community with a Shared Future for Mankind.People's Forum (6), 103.
- [8].Chen Xulong, Zhang Jingfang(2023). The universality of three Global initiatives.Modern International Relations, (8),19.
- [9].Zeng Xiang Hong, Tian Jiale (2024). The internal connection of the Three Initiatives and their world significance.Teaching and Research,(4),89.
- [10].Wei Hong, Hao Xue (2023)."Three Global initiatives": New Thinking and Path for Global Governance.Socialism Research, 272(6),169.